

NEW-YORKISMS.

From Our Own Correspondent.

NEW YORK, June 15, 1869.

Victor Hugo says it is impossible for the optimist to maintain his theories in presence of the devil-fish. I maintain that it is equally impossible for him to do so, in presence of this weather. Every other day is a meteorological multum in parvo, a thermometer pluribus vnum, an atmosphere illud in a metropolitan nutshell. Naturally inclined to believe that everything is for the best, I confess I stand an involuntary pessimist before the clerk of the weather, and I do not think as censurably as I ought to of that witty infidel—why are all infidels called witty?—who said that he thought, were he Providence, he could manage things a little better.

Commissioner Delano has awoke from a snooze, and proclaimed that no property seized by any Internal Revenue Officer will be released by an order from the Commissioner until the officer who made the seizure, and the Assessor and Collector of the district, have reported the facts in the case, with their recommendation, or had ample opportunity to make such report and recommendation.

Yesterday the last races at the Spring meet at Jerome Park were run. The first race was a hurdle, 600, one mile and three quarters, resulting as follows—Beacon, 1; Harry Booth, 2; Thompson's g. 3; time, 3:33. Beacon and Booth leaped the last hurdle on the home stretch almost together with Lobelia, jumping over as they came down, and Thompson's b. g. four lengths behind. Lobelia stumbled as she landed over the hurdle and rolled over Roach, her jockey, severely injuring him inwardly and breaking his collar-bone and two ribs. The second race was the Jockey Club, handicap for all ages, two miles, $100 entrance, $1000 added by the jockey. Plantagenet and Abdiel Kader ran a dead heat. Watson's Uncle Vic closed up, and the rest beaten off. Time, 3:43. The third race—Consolidation premium of $600, one and three-quarters miles for horses beaten during this meeting was won by General Duke, beating Metairie, second, and Vile, third. Time, 3:12. The race was exceedingly close between all the horses. The three-mile race for a purse of $1000 was contested by Banchee, Flora McIvor, General York, Floetwing, and Eminence. General York won by two lengths from Flora McIvor. Time, 5:58.34.

Everything connected with the Boston Peace Jubilee is on the hundred and thousand scale. Sunday night the Fall River steamboat took fifteen hundred passengers, among whom were Parepa-Rosa and four hundred Peace Jubilee musicians. It is understood that the celebration will be opened with a prayer by four thousand clergymen, and we all know that the chorus will consist of twenty thousand voices. The footlights are to be lit by thirteen hundred call-boys, but not more than five hundred recalls to any one artist will be permitted. Beneath the stage a special department has been fitted up for the reception of catgut and the replacement of broken violin strings, but no more than three hundred and fifty-seven violinists are allowed to fracture a chord a day, for fear the audience should fancy it is being got upon a string. I don't know what the quality of the violinism will be, but presuming the number of instruments to be a thousand, would it be too much, remembering that the letter D, as a numeral, represents five hundred, to attempt to characterize it by the term fiddle-D?

By authority of District-Attorney Pierpont, a new libel has been filed against the Quaker City, and she is again in the custody of the marshal. The libel declares that she is ready to sail to some place unknown, with intent to cruise and commit hostilities against the subjects, citizens, and property of Haiti, with whom the United States is at peace. So much for Buckingham.

The materials for the track of the West Side Elevated Railway are continually arriving, and the work of laying them will soon begin. The posts are up as far as Thirtieth street. By July the engineers expect to be running cars over three and a half miles of the railway, from the Battery to Thirtieth street. The Commissioners of Charities and Corrections intend opening a new office to-day, on the ground-floor of the Plymouth Buildings, at the junction of Ninth and Stuyvesant streets. The object is to take lists of all persons desiring help, domestic, agricultural, mechanical, or clerical, and providing for those needing work, without charging a commission. This design, it is hoped, will obviate the roguesy practiced at the private intelligence offices, where the poor of both sexes are so helplessly swindled. The enormous ruins in New York are working marvels for the suburbs. At Irvington, for instance, which is within a few miles of City Hall Park, land was once considered extremely well paid for if it brought one hundred dollars per acre. It is now selling at thirty times that price, and in some cases at even forty or fifty.

White Plains has been fixed as the site for the new Asylum for the Insane. These grounds are nearly three hundred acres in extent. The main building is four stories high, and the cost of the property, including land and building, will be one million of dollars. Five hundred patients will be accommodated, and the establishment will be the largest of the kind in the world.

The European steamers that sailed from this port yesterday took not only almost all the passengers, but also a very precious burden of continental pleasure-seekers—the raw material for romance at the spas, which is to supply feuilletons with so much good make-up for the winter magazines.

Among the passengers to leave for Europe on Wednesday, in the Cunard steamer Scotia, is A. J. Drexel, Esq., of Philadelphia, of the well-known banking firm of that name. Mr. Drexel goes out on a brief respite from his business, accompanied by his estimable family.

Yesterday may be said to have commenced the season at Cape May and Long Branch. (Hilbert) overcoats and hot stoves had been greatly in request. The first genuine bathing of the season took place yesterday morning. No less than three matches at base-ball came off in the suburbs yesterday afternoon. They were between the Eckfords and Athletics, of Brooklyn, at the Union ground; the Athletics and Alphas, at the Capitoline; and the Emperors and Socials, at the Hotoken. To-day the Red Stockings, of Cincinnati, are expected to play the Mutuals, to-morrow the Athletics, and on Thursday the Athletics are expected to play the Athletics, and on Thursday the Athletics are expected to play the Athletics.

The country newspapers have seized the occasion of Mr. Booth's marriage to "find out all about" the young lady who is now his wife. They have discovered "who was her father, who was her mother, had she a sister, had she a brother," and are very confident that she has now a "dear one, yet, and a dearer one, still, than all other." In commenting upon this gossip, a syndicate of literary persons asks, "why should the public care about it?" But, unfortunately, it is precisely about gossip like this that the public cares, more almost than about anything else. If I can tell the public something, hitherto unknown, a little bit scandalous about a distinguished personage, I am very certain of pleasing, while all my proper and innocent attempts at recreation would have been overshadowed by a doubt.

You Philadelphiaers are not to be alone to-day in your celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the Knights Templar, St. John's Commandery, No. 15, Court d'Arion Commandery, No. 22; De Witt Clinton Commandery, No. 27; Manhattan Commandery, No. 31; Ivanhoe Commandery, No. 36; Hudson River Commandery, No. 38.

Even hotel proprietors grow veteran. Samuel Laird, of Long Branch, is one of these. He is the Champion Hotelier of Long Branch, and the titular guest of the Madison House. The first hot day of the season was given there on Saturday night. Miss Annie Laird, his daughter, who looked lovely in lavender, did the reception, and Gratia's "The World and I" was the first book to be engaged for the Boston Bachelors and the Jubilee Georgies—did the music.

The Executive Committee of the General Convention of the Swedenborgian Church held a meeting yesterday morning at the Church of the New Jerusalem, Thirty-ninth street, between Park and Lexington avenues, but no business of public interest was transacted.

Lucille Western has taken Flak's Grand Opera House, and will not have her first appearance there, since her return from California, next Monday evening. Of course, the appearance will be as the false "Lady Isabel" and the festive "Madame Vine." If the public were asked why it persisted in approving of this drama, and of Miss Western's portraiture in it, I opine that it would answer in the reproachful words of Mrs. Crupp, when she remarked, "Mr. Capertail, I'm a mother myself!" 'Tis the maternal instinct that craves; and when "Madame Vine" in the last act pulls off the wig and spectacles and exclaims, "While I am your mother" the whole audience becomes transfused into Mrs. Crupp, and disappears beneath a cloud of pocket-handkerchiefs.
